A List of Products You Could Create

One of the beautiful things about creating content is... once you create a product in one color palette or on one theme or holiday, you can use that product as a template for countless new products in all sorts of colors, on any theme imaginable and for holidays and occasions throughout the year.

Search through your computer and look through any commercial use products you've purchased. Read the license terms of each and if allowed (which usually is in most cases) copy page layouts and ideas from those files into your product or template file. You can then adapt them to any holiday or theme.

Here Are Just Some Ideas for types of products you can create for holidays and special occasions. Have fun exploring and creating!
